

POLITICAL SCIENCE, BACHELOR OF ARTS

College of Letters & Science

The Political Science Major Program

Political science is the study of politics and political systems at the local, national, and international levels. It concerns not only the institutions of government but also the analysis of such phenomena as political behavior, political values, political change and stability, parties, pressure groups, bureaucracies, administrative behavior, justice, national security, and international affairs.

The Program

The Department of Political Science offers three majors: International Relations (<https://catalog.ucdavis.edu/departments-programs-degrees/political-science/international-relations-ab/>), Political Science (p. 1), and Political Science—Public Service (<https://catalog.ucdavis.edu/departments-programs-degrees/political-science/political-science-public-service-ab/>).

- The International Relations major explores problems of security, development, ethnic conflict, human rights, health, and the environment at a global level.
- The Political Science major aims to provide the student with a broad understanding of political concepts, political institutions, political behavior, and political processes.
- The Political Science—Public Service major is for students who desire opportunities for practical hands-on experience in their major. It differs in particular from the political science major in its internship requirement and its focus on the American political system.

Internships & Career Alternatives

Both the proximity of UC Davis to the state capitol and the programs offered by the UC Washington Center afford exceptional internship possibilities in local, state, and national government offices, providing students with actual experience in politics and government service while still attending school. A student who majors in political science acquires research and analytic skills relevant to many professional fields. Consequently, the majors offered in political science are valuable not only in providing students with a better understanding of politics and political systems, but also as a first step toward careers in teaching, law, management, government, urban planning, journalism, politics, administration, or for graduate studies in numerous fields.
